By SPICK HALL

Franklin Field, May 1.—Over 25,000 track fans, the greatest crowd that ever saw an athletic event in Philadelphia, with the exception of the Penn-Pittsburgh game of 1919, jammed its way into the final events in the two-day 1920 University of Pennsylvania relays.

Every seat in the stadium was taken and thousands jammed the aisles and lanes bordering the track to see nothing of hundreds of others who occupied the windows and other available spaces of Weightman Hall and training house.

HAYS PREDICTS ECONOMY AS CHIEF REPUBLICAN PLANK

American Stomachs More Important Than "Heart of World," He Declares

G. O. P. LEADER CONFERS WITH SENATOR PENROSE

Harding's Campaign Manager Also Here to Discuss Situation With Pennsylvanian

Hays Terms Stomach Real "Heart of World"

Will H. Hays, Republican national chairman, in this city to confer with Senator Penrose, before heading down into an epigram the Republican party's attitude toward an outstanding issue of the day.

"We are more interested in the stomachs of our people than in the hearts of the world," he said, in reference to President Wilson's plea for the league and the treaty on the ground that their failure would break the heart of the world.

The Republican campaign for the presidency this year will be predicated on checking the drain on America's public and private purse, Will H. Hays, Republican national chairman, forecast here today.

An economical business administration, a reduction in taxes, spreading the war debts over a long period of years and developing conditions that will lower living costs were outlined by Mr. Hays as important planks in the G. O. P. platform.

The national chairman put into an epigram the Republican party's attitude toward the present-day problem of most Americans.

"We are more interested in the stomachs of our people than in the hearts of the world," he said, referring to the Democratic issue of the peace treaty and the League of Nations and President Wilson's declaration that failure of the league would break the heart of the world.

Confers With Penrose

This city became the political capital of the United States for nearly two hours as Mr. Hays conferred with Senator Penrose on details of the Chicago convention, now a week distant.

The senator's endorsement of Senator Philander C. Knox for President focused national attention on the conference, but the chief of the league scanned the skyline for a "sure-fire" winner next November.

"It is my business to elect, not select candidates," he said. "They are all men's comment when asked his opinion of the Knox boom."

After leaving Senator Penrose and while on his way to the West Philadelphia station for a train to Washington, Mr. Hays dictated the following statement:

"The Republicans everywhere in the nation are 'making' to go. They are all set. Republican prospects are, of course, splendid. The confidence of Republicans simply reflects the need of Republican success."

Success Sees for G. O. P.

The tremendous industry where is the interest of men, women and children, for the support of taxes which are being levied, leading to a war debt over a large number of years, and a real effort to develop conditions that will bring about a reduction in the high cost of living.

"We are more interested in the stomachs of our own people than in the hearts of the world," he said.

Third, with an administration of law and order everywhere certain, the party will measure its steps forward by the new needs of the nation with its eyes always aimed at the feet of the always solid ground.

As Mr. Hays waited for his train he espied Charles D. Hillier, former Republican national chairman, here for the first time. Mr. Hillier's son is a member of the Yale relay team.

Mr. Hays called to the former chairman and after warm greetings they continued on Page Three, Column Two

PRINCESS OF SWEDEN DEAD

Wife of Crown Prince Was Formerly Margaret of Connaught

Stockholm, May 1.—(By A. P.)—Crown Princess Gustava Adolpha, of Sweden, who before her marriage was Princess Margaret of Connaught, died here this afternoon.

London, May 1.—(By A. P.)—The Duke of Connaught received news here of the death in Stockholm of his daughter, Crown Princess Gustava Adolpha of Sweden, amid hundreds of congratulatory messages sent him on his seventieth birthday.

The Crown Princess of Sweden was the elder of the two daughters of the Duke of Connaught, brother of the late King Edward VII, and consequently a cousin of the present King George V. Her sister is Princess Patricia of Connaught, known as "Princess Pat," who was married less than two years ago. The Princess Margaret's marriage to Gustava Adolph, which took place in St. George's Chapel, Windsor Castle, in June, 1905, was an extremely brilliant event, most of the European courts being represented, and King Edward serving as the officiating minister.

Unlike many royal marriages, this was said to have been a love match, pure and simple. They had four boys and a girl. The Princess Margaret was often termed the "tomboy" of the British royal family because of her fondness for outdoor life.

Stories and pictures never before published in the history of the Connaughts, including the Princess Margaret's marriage, Sunday, in The Philadelphia Record.
